Celebrating 25 years of the American Medical Association’s Women in Medicine Month
Promoting Women and Diversity in Medicine

WOMEN IN MEDICINE
A Talk Story Session with
DR. MARJORIE MAU
Professor and Founding Chair,
Department of Native Hawaiian Health
John A. Burns School of Medicine

Friday, September 25
11:30am-12:30pm (brown bag session)
JABSOM Medical Education Building, Room 314
All faculty, staff, and students are welcome

About the Featured Speaker:

Marjorie Leimomi Mala Mau, MD, MS, MACP
Professor & Myron “Pinky” Thompson Endowed Chair for Native Hawaiian Health Research

Dr. Mau will share her journey through medicine and the impact that her work and leadership has made on our community. Dr. Mau is the first Professor & Chair of Native Hawaiian Health and currently serves as Division Director of Research in the Department of Native Hawaiian Health. She is also Principal Investigator of the Center for Native and Pacific Health Disparities, which she established in 2001 to address Native Hawaiian and Pacific Island Peoples health disparities through biomedical & behavioral research and community engaged approaches. Dr. Mau was recently awarded the Mastership of the American College of Physicians and is the first woman in Hawai‘i to be awarded this honor and brings the total number of Masters in this State to five. She is also the first Native Hawaiian woman board-certified in Endocrinology and Internal Medicine and is licensed in both Hawai‘i and Alaska. She enjoys ocean voyaging and volunteers as a Medical Officer for the Polynesian Voyaging Society and Ohana Wa‘a.

To Register: Email Lori Emery at lmatsuza@hawaii.edu

Sponsored by the JABSOM Faculty Development Program and the Native Hawaiian Center of Excellence